Marwel design and manufacture conveyors for a wide variety of product types. They all have the advantage of a rugged and reliable design.

The above photograph shows a multi-chain accumulating conveyor used for storing long bundles of tubes. Also shown is a multi chain elevator used for transferring tubes from one level to a higher level.

The next photograph shows a Diablo roller conveyor with low friction rollers capable of handling tube without marking the finish. This is also a 90 degree transfer device from rollers on to chains.
